For years the Catholic church said animals have no souls. Finally Pope John Paul II stated yes they do! But when confronted with the afterlife issue, priests will either say we just don't know what happens to them, or the souls perish on death. When asked where scripture states that, they can't give you one, because it's not there. This book logically looks at some scripture and presents an obvious case that God loves them like he does us, and would not allow them to simply vanish from existence. That would be quite a cruel God and not the God we have come to know. My hat off for this brave and excellent book.

I bought this as a gift for a friend a few days after her cat died, and she has been comforted by it. I also got the original version for myself. Both are similar (I read both to compare). They are written by Father Jack Wintz, so it does focus on the Catholic perspective. It is not a lengthy book (about 110 pages), and an easy read. It gives a hopeful viewpoint on a difficult topic. I hope this has helped. Thank you.

After losing my best friend, Sylvester, about a week-and-a-half ago, I began reading many of my cat books that I had put off seeing that many of them end up with the passing of beloved feline. This book was the first one I dived into. The book is short, but to the point, and provides numerous examples of where Scripture clearly proves God also loves the animals of this world and they will be a part of the new Heaven and new earth. Friar Jack Wintz's book is a tremendous blessing for anyone who has lost a beloved cat or dog. It truly has been a blessing for me. Someday, I will see my buddy, Sylvester, in Heaven!

I'm an animal lover, a cat lady. This sweet little book is in my heart. Thank you. It is beautiful.

I found this book to be very helpful in my ministry. Helps to address many concerns for animal lovers and especially for children who have lost a pet (and may have experienced the death of their pet as the first "death" of a loved one that they ever experienced). The book is well developed and gives many spiritual references.

I give it 5 stars! I had recently lost my beloved cat, Clemenza, to an infection and the vet so very lovingly sent him to "Cat Heaven" while I held him and cried. I still speak to him every day, and I miss him so much, but I know that somewhere "up there", he can hear me, and hopefully we will be reunited once again. Kudos for an absolutely wonderful book. I will treasure it always. Anne

Nothing to do with this book, but all angels live in Heaven especially after they have touched our lives with their love. Eventually we will all meet again in a better place than this place we are in now. GOD is merciful and he is the almighty. His little friends are sent to guide us and comfort us. We take care of them and we shall follow in their foot steps one day. I look forward to this with all my heart. Darian Paganelli

What can I say...a PERFECT gift for someone who has lost a special kitty or for your self as you grieve the loss of your precious kitty. This book will touch your heart and assure you that our special companions do go to heaven.
